In August 2019, Taikoo Engine Services (Xiamen) Co. Ltd. (“TEXL”) celebrated its 10-Year Anniversary since the commencement of operations in 2010, and the completion of 600th GE90 engine output. A Celebration Dinner was held on 30th August, where representatives of the government officials, company Directors, business partners, customers and all staff members joined together to celebrate this special moment.

“Over the last decade, TEXL has developed into a true centre of excellence and leading GE90 engine repair and overhaul facility, having over 400 employees and just completing its 600th Engine output,” said Summit Chan, Chairman of the TEXL Board. “This could not have been achieved without the great support from General Electric and our customers, the unwavering commitment of the staff to achieve excellence in safety and quality, and our dedication to continuous improvement in productivity and cost-competitiveness.”

As a business that focuses on long-term success, TEXL will leverage on the foundation built in the past 10 years and continue to harness opportunities in the constantly evolving global aviation market. “Based on our development plans, we will continue with our growth to cope with business demand,” said Marek Wernicke, Director and General Manager of TEXL. “We are working on the introduction of second engine type at TEXL to secure our growth and business development.”
